Notes for Lifetime Allowance Questionnaire

Lifetime Allowance

Q1	Answer Yes, if you have ever taken any benefits from either an occupational pension scheme or personal pension scheme.
Q2	Please take into account all pensions except state pensions. Include pensions already in payment at 5th April 2006, those taken since 6th April 2006 and benefits still to come into payment. To work out an approximate value for pensions already in payment at 5th April 2006, multiply the maximum annual pension at this date by 25. If you are unsure of the total funds in your pension(s), consult the latest annual statement from each provider and add up the transfer values from each statement. Alternatively, the providers will be able to give you this information.
Q3	Each time you take pension benefits, a percentage of the Lifetime Allowance is used up and the provider must issue a statement stating the percentage. Please add up the percentages used up from each statement and state the total.
Q4a	Pensions being paid from before 6th April 2006 also use up a percentage of the Lifetime Allowance. If you are receiving a pension from before this date, please answer all the parts in Q4 so that we may calculate the percentage of Lifetime Allowance used up for you.
Q4b	We must work out the percentage of Lifetime Allowance used up for pensions in payment at the date you first took benefits after 6th April 2006.
Q4b(iii)	Please state the annual amount of pension being paid at the date in Q4b(ii)
Q5	If you have taken benefits but not received a statement from the provider, please provide the information requested to work out the percentage of Lifetime Allowance used up.
Q6 & Q6a	If benefits are being taken from more than one Plan you must decide in which order the benefits should be processed. We would recommend that advice is sought from a financial adviser regarding the order of processing as there are potential tax implications which should be considered.
Q7	When you are intending to take any other benefits between now and the date these benefits will be taken we need the information requested to work out the percentage of Lifetime Allowance used up.

Protection and Enhancements

The Lifetime Allowance can be adjusted and your pre-6th April 2006 fund protected in certain circumstances. Please consult a financial adviser for more information on this.

Where you have applied for protection and/or an adjustment, HMRC issue a certificate confirming the type of protection agreed, certificate number and enhancement factor if applicable.

Where copies of the certificate/s are not sent we will assume there is no protection and a Lifetime Allowance of £1,073,100 (2021/22) will be used.
